

Bank Deposit Policy

Sample banking policy document for use with the banking RAG chatbot.

1. Purpose

This policy explains general rules for opening, maintaining, funding, and withdrawing from deposit accounts.

2. Savings Accounts

Savings accounts are designed for personal deposits and withdrawals. Customers may deposit funds through supported branch, ATM, transfer, or digital banking channels.

The applicable interest rate, minimum balance, and transaction limits are determined by the account product selected by the customer.

3. Deposits

Deposits are credited after the bank completes applicable verification and processing. Cash deposits may be subject to identification, transaction, and regulatory requirements.

Electronic transfers are credited according to the applicable payment network and bank processing schedule.

4. Withdrawals

Customers may withdraw available funds using supported channels, subject to account balance, transaction limits, holds, and applicable verification requirements.

A withdrawal cannot exceed the available balance unless the account specifically provides an approved overdraft facility.

5. Interest

Interest, where applicable, is calculated according to the terms of the selected deposit product. Rates may vary by product and may be changed in accordance with the account agreement.

6. Minimum Balance and Fees

Some deposit products may require a minimum balance. Fees may apply when the required balance is not maintained or when specified services are used.

7. Account Security

Customers must protect passwords, PINs, one-time passwords, cards, and other authentication information. The bank will never require a customer to disclose a one-time password to an unsolicited caller.

8. Dormant or Inactive Accounts

Accounts with no qualifying customer-initiated activity for the period specified by the applicable rules may be classified as inactive or dormant. Reactivation may require customer verification.

9. Disputes

Customers should report unauthorized transactions or account discrepancies promptly through official bank channels.

10. Important Note

This is a fictional/sample policy created for software testing and RAG demonstration. It is not the policy of a real bank and should not be used for financial or regulatory decisions.